

Office of Postdoctoral Studies

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON

Each year UW–Madison trains 1,100 postdocs. The Office of Postdoctoral Studies stands ready to assist you as you mentor this unique population.

- Advice, resources and referrals on all issues relating to postdoc training
 - Funding information
 - Recruitment services
 - Job postings on the National Postdoctoral Association Career Center (offered free to 10 assistant professors each year)
 - Information for prospective postdocs promoting UW–Madison and its resources
 - Professional development programming for postdocs
 - Skills: leadership, grant writing, mentoring
 - Careers: job search skills and occupational knowledge
-

Professor Alan C Rapraeger, PhD
Executive Director

The Office of Postdoctoral Studies strives to enhance the postdoctoral training experience by providing professional development opportunities, assisting in postdoc recruitment and mentoring, and developing policies governing postdoctoral training.

Imogen Hurley, PhD

Director
ihurley@wisc.edu | 608-265-6225
1210 Health Sciences Learning Center
Hurley's portfolio includes policy, skills development, and engagement and representation.

Andrew Cusick, MEd, CDF

Career Development Officer
acusick@wisc.edu | 608-263-9370
1210 Health Sciences Learning Center
Cusick's portfolio is focused on career development.

<https://postdoc.wisc.edu>